I.Marshall is remembered with honor for his strength and his wisdom in helping black people throughout the United States when he was a lawyer and a Supreme Court Justice. He is remembered because he knew right from wrong and he fought for what he knew was right.

II.Marshall won the case to show everyone that separate is not equal. He argued that black students deserve to attend school with white students in the same building. There should not be separate schools for black students and separate schools for white students. Marshall believed that you can't have separate schools for people just because of their skin color. You can't have separate restaurants, drinking fountains, or buses. Marshall was put on the Supreme Court, which is the highest court of the United States that decides the laws for our country. He was appointed to the Supreme Court by the President of the United States as the first black Justice.

III.Many schools and other types of buildings have been named after him. We give Thurgood Marshall our thanks for fighting for equality.

IV. Thurgood Marshall was born in Maryland in 1908. He could not study law at the college he wanted because he was black, so he studied at an all-black student college named Howard University. Marshall became a lawyer and helped black people fight for their rights. He won most of his cases. One of his most famous cases was Brown vs. the Board of Education.

Gray wolves

1. However howling is not the only way of wolves' communication. Wolves have an excellent sense of smell, and they use scents produced by their bodies to communicate, too. One source of scent is urine, which they use to mark territory so strange wolves know they're intruding, and to tell other wolves in their own pack where they are.

2. Another way wolves communicate is through body language. If a wolf feels confident, it will approach another wolf with its head and tail held high and ears perked up. If you saw a wolf slinking toward another with its body lowered, its tail between its legs, and its ears flattened, you'd know it was approaching a dominant animal.

3. The howl of a gray wolf isn't only a mysterious sound in the wilderness. Howling sends other wolves a message. It might mean "I'm here, where are you?" or "Stay away from my territory". Wolves live in groups called packs. The wolves' communication skills are very important to the pack's survival.

You were surfing the Internet and found Lila's blog:

1. I love my little sister. She's my everything. I love getting her dressed and playing with her. She is the greatest little sister you can have. Unfortunately, we can't go to the latest parties together because she's my dog Shuga…
2. Shuga means the world to me. I love her as if she truly is my little sister. She's so spoiled and catches an attitude just like she's human sometimes (I swear). My mom brought her just right after my grandfather's death in 2006. Everybody loves her and she knows it. She's super friendly and super sweet. I don't know what I'd do without her.
3. Shuga is a Pekingese and she's the best dog a person could have. It gets kind of hard sometimes without her on campus. Sometimes I wake up and look for her forgetting I was at school and not at home. She's my addiction. I don't know if any of you have pets but mine is my everything. I hope you don't think I'm weird because I love my dog so much, but I really love her a lot! I mean some people say diamonds are a girl's best friends, but Shuga is mine!

12. Why did the author of the blog write this post?

A. to complain about living without a pet on campus
B. to express her opinion about friendship between humans and pets
C. to share her feelings with the readers about her pet
D. to show how she loves it

13 Which paragraph tells how Shuga became a family member?

A. paragraph 1

The Music Concert

A music concert has many instruments which are played by many musicians. "Musicians" is the word you use for people who play music with instruments. If you play the piano, you are called a "pianist". There are upright pianos that stand with the back straight up and there are grand pianos which have the top of the piano that goes up and stays up in a slant.

A drummer plays the drums. There are many kinds of drums. Sometimes the music concert has a song that is a "remake" of another song. "Remake" means that the song was made over from what it was like the first time it was played. Maybe some instruments were added. Maybe some notes were added. Maybe someone's singing was added to the music. Many different songs are played at a music concert.

Sometimes a song is "replayed". "Replayed" means you play the song again, or sometimes someone can ask the musicians to play a song they would like to hear again. Music concerts are held all the time at many places. There are many musicians who play in the concerts. You can go to the concerts to hear the music, to see the musicians who play, and to learn more about all of instruments that are in the music concert. Sometimes you need to try out to play in a music concert. You pick a song to play and you play it at a try-out. If the person who is in charge of the concert likes the way you play, then you can join the music concert.

15. What is the main purpose of the two piano illustrations on the first page?

A. The author talks about pianos.
B. The author talks about pianists.
C. The author explains two types of pianos.
D. The author likes pianos.

16. Which sentence best matches the main idea of the text?

A. You need to pay to go to a music concert.
B. Music concerts have many instruments, musicians, and songs to enjoy.
C. There are two types of pianos: upright and grand.
D. There are many kinds of drums.

17. Who is most likely to have written this story?

A. Someone who has visited a music concert.
B. Someone who does not like music.
C. Someone who has never attended a music concert.
D. Someone who is not a musician.

Robert Fulton – Steamboat Inventor

Robert Fulton was born in Pennsylvania in 1765. He learned to read and write at home. Later, he was sent to a Quaker school for his education.

Fulton showed an early interest in inventions and built a rocket for the Fourth of July when he was a teenager. Fulton enjoyed thinking about ideas for new inventions.

Fulton learned to draw as a child and excelled in art. When he finished his schooling, he worked as an artist in Philadelphia, where he painted portraits and landscapes. At age 23, Fulton decided to move to England and while living there, he invented many different kinds of machines. He was very interested in how canal systems worked. Canals are deep paths of water for boats to travel through from one body of water to another. Usually they are man-made.

Fulton eventually moved to France and worked on canal systems. There, he used his talents for art and invention to design a submarine, which is a boat that can go underwater. Then he built a steamboat, a large boat that is powered by heating water to make steam which makes the paddlewheels move.

When Fulton moved back to the U.S., he took his steamboat invention and established the first steamboat service in the world on the Hudson River in New York. People paid money to travel by steamboat. The first steamboat trip took 32 hours to cover 150 miles (240 kilometers) in 1807. That is equal to moving at about 5 miles (8 kilometers) an hour. That is as fast as a person can walk. Robert Fulton is known as an American inventor who developed the first steamboat service to help people travel from one place to another. He is also called the "Father of Steam Navigation".

18. The text mentions 3 of Robert Fulton's inventions. What were these?

A. canal systems,submarine, steamboat

Ireland is famous as a country without any snakes. Legend has it that Saint Patrick banished them all. But the real reason is that Ireland is an island, and snakes have not lived there at least since the Ice Age. Ireland is close to the larger island of Great Britain, in northwestern Europe. The smaller northern part of the island is called Northern Ireland and is part of the United Kingdom. Northern Ireland's capital is Belfast.

The larger part of the island is the Republic of Ireland and is usually simply called Ireland. Dublin is the capital of this independent country. Because of its location in the Atlantic Ocean, Ireland has a warm climate most of the year. It rains pretty often, with the hilly parts of the island getting nearly 255 cm of rain every year. The land is covered with fields and green mosses. Some people call Ireland the Emerald Isle because it is so magnificently green.

Jeans have become one of the most worn pieces of clothing in the world. Everybody wears them, from the rural farmer to the urban lawyer and from models to housewives. But why have jeans become so popular. You'll get many answers. For some people they look cool, for others jeans are simply comfortable.

Jeans were first designed as durable trousers for farm workers and miners in the states of the American west.

A Nevada tailor, Jacob Davis, had the idea of using copper bolts at the corner of the pockets to make them stronger. They became popular instantly and soon many people bought them.

Although Davis knew that he had a great product which many people wanted to buy, he didn't have the money to patent it. He asked Levi Strauss, who supplied him with cloth, to help him out. The two worked together and started making jeans out of denim, which was more comfortable and could be easily stretched. It also became softer as it got… They were dyed with indigo because it did not go through the cloth like other dyes do.

At first jeans were worn only by workers, especially in factories. In the eastern part of the US jeans were hardly worn at all. They were associated with rural people and the working class. But when rich easterners went on holidays to escape every day life they often put on jeans.

James Dean and Marlon Brando made them popular in movies and everyone wanted to wear them. Jeans became a symbol of the youth rebellion during the 1950s and 1960s. College students started to wear them as a protest against the Vietnam War and establishment. The new trousers were banned in American schools and sometimes in theatres and cinemas.

A strange oasis of fantastic skyscrapers emerges from the desert floor. The city sprawls over the sand and creeps out to the sea, man-made islands dot the coast line. Tourism, business and construction keep the city busy, even at night. Dubai, once a Bedouin outpost displays capitalism at its peak.

The discovery of oil in 1966 turned the city from a quiet fishing and pearl-exporting town to a rich oil sheikdom. But because its oil supplies are slowly running out, the royal family has decided to make the emirate a financial centre and tourist destination. Since the 1980s they have been investing and pouring money into Dubai. The strategy has worked. Today the emirate gets only very little money from oil but its gross domestic product has exploded. Dubai is perhaps best known for its seven star hotel, the Burj Al Arab, a sail shaped luxury accommodation only has suites. In the 2008 construction of the Burj Dubai, the tallest building in the world, will be completed. It consists of a palm-shaped island of apartments and villas that extend out to the Persian Gulf and even can be seen from space.

Soon Dubai will boast the world's largest mall, longest indoor skiing slope and the biggest theme park. There are even plans ti build a group of buildings that look like chess pieces on a chess board.

The Frog and the Ox

Many years ago there was a magnificent ox. One day, when he was taking an afternoon walk, a poorly dressed and unimportant looking frog saw him. The frog felt envy toward the beautiful, strong ox. But the frog yelled to his friends, "Look at this ox! But he is no better than I am, if I tried." The frog swelled up to twice his normal size. "Am I the size of this big ox now?" he asked his frog friends. "You will have to be much bigger to be his size," they said. The frog swelled up even bigger. "How about now?" he asked his friends. "No, but you better not swell up more or you will kill yourself," they warned.

But the frog wanted to be as big as the ox and puffed, and puffed. He never got as big as the ox because he burst first.

Mrs Smith is going shopping with her son. They are looking for a present for Mr Smith's birthday. Mrs Smith wants to buy him a new camera and Tom wants to buy him a jumper.

They drive to the department store on the high street. Mrs Smith uses the escalator to go to the Electrical Department on the third floor and Tom takes the stairs up to the Men's Clothing Department on the first floor.

When she gets to the Electrical Department she finds that cameras are sold in the Photography Department on the ground floor. She takes the elevator down and asks the sales assistant there for some help. She doesn't know much about cameras and needs some advice. He recommends an automatic camera by Olympus, but it is too expensive. She asks him if he has anything a little cheaper and he tells her about a special offer on the Pentax range. It still seems expensive so she thanks the assistant and decides to shop around first.

Meanwhile, Tom is looking at the jumpers. He only has £10 to spend so he can't afford most of them. He sees his mother and they decide to go to the smaller shops round the corner.

London

London is the capital of Great Britain. It is situated in the southeast of England on the River Thames and there are lots of bridges across the Thames. The most famous of these bridges is Tower Bridge. The machinery which draws up the bridge when a ship passes under it is hidden in the two towers. Near Tower Bridge, on the north bank of the Thames there is the Tower Of London. It is a big castle, its oldest part, White Tower, dates back to the times of William the Conqueror. Back in history The Tower served as a prison - now it is one of London's main tourist attractions. Tourists are guided by "Beefeaters" in historic uniforms and the Crown Jewels are on display there.

Another magnet for tourists is St. Paul's Cathedral. It is Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece. Like many other churches it was built after the great fire had destroyed big parts of London in 1666. It is 110 metres high and 627 steps lead up to the Whispering Gallery in the dome. In 1981 the royal wedding between Prince Charles and Lady Diana was celebrated there.

The London home of the Queen is Buckingham Palace where you can see the "Changing of the Guards". The coronation of the Kings and Queens takes place in Westminster Abbey. Near this enormous church there are the Houses of Parliament, the seat of the British government. They consist of a group of buildings, among them St. Stephen's Tower, the famous clock tower housing Big Ben, one of the world's biggest bells.

Not far from the Houses of Parliament there is Trafalgar Square with Lord Nelson's Column, erected in the memory of Admiral Nelson, who won against the Spanish in the Battle of Trafalgar.

London is also famous for its parks. There is Hyde Park, there is St. James's Park, which is the oldest and there is Regent's Park, which houses the London Zoo. In former times all the parks were royal gardens.

Apart from sightseeing tourists also love shopping in London. You will find the big stores in Oxford Street and the smaller shops in the little side streets.

At night the West End offers all kinds of entertainment like music, theatre or cinema.

The Rabbit and the Turtle

One day a rabbit was boasting about how fast he could run. He was laughing at the turtle for being so slow. Much to the rabbit's surprise, the turtle challenged him to a race. The rabbit thought this was a good joke and accepted the challenge. The fox was to be the umpire of the race. As the race began, the rabbit raced way ahead of the turtle, just like everyone thought. The rabbit got to the halfway point and could not see the turtle anywhere. He was hot and tired and decided to stop and take a short nap. Even if the turtle passed him, he would be able to race to the finish line ahead of him. All this time the turtle kept walking step by step by step. He never quit no matter how hot or tired he got. He just kept going. However, the rabbit slept longer than he had thought and woke up. He could not see the turtle anywhere! He went at full-speed to the finish line but found the turtle there waiting for him.

18. What happened at the half-way point?

Learning English

Today, millions of people want to learn or improve their English but it is difficult to find the best method. Is it better to study in Britain or America or to study in your own country?
The advantages of going to Britain seem obvious. Firstly, you will be able to listen to the language all the time you are in the country. You will be surrounded completely by the language wherever you go. Another advantage is that you have to speak the language if you are with other people. In Italy, it is always possible, in the class, to speak Italian if you want to and the learning is slower.

On the other hand, there are also advantages to staying at home to study. You don't have to make big changes to your life. As well as this, it is also a lot cheaper than going to Britain but it is never possible to achieve the results of living in the UK. If you have a good teacher in Italy, I think you can learn in a more concentrated way than being in Britain without going to a school.

So, in conclusion, I think that if you have enough time and enough money, the best choice is to spend some time in the UK. This is simply not possible for most people, so being here in Italy is the only viable option. The most important thing to do in this situation is to maximise your opportunities: to speak only English in class and to try to use English whenever possible outside the class.

@matemonai

10. What is the article about?
A. How many people learn English.
B. The best way to learn English.
C. English schools in England and America.

11. What is one of the advantages of going to the UK to learn English?
A. There are no Italians in Britain.
B. You will have to speak English and not your language.
C. The language schools are better.

12. What is one of the advantages of staying in your country to learn English?
A. The teachers aren't very good in Britain.
B. You have to work too hard in Britain.
C.Your life can continue more or less as it was before.

13. People who don't have a lot of time and money should...
A. Learn English in Britain.
B. Try and speak English in class more often.
C. Go to Italy to learn English.

Changes In Town

I have returned to my hometown of Wilson Creek after an absence of 10 years.
So many things have changed around here. When I left Wilson Creek, there was a small pond on the right as you left town. They have filled in this pond and they have built a large shopping mall there. A new post office has also been built just across from my old school.

There is a baseball stadium on the outskirts of Wilson Creek which has been changed completely. They have now added a new stand where probably a few thousand people could sit. It looks really great.
The biggest changes have taken place in the downtown area. They have pedestrianised the centre and you can't drive there anymore. A European-style fountain has been built and some benches have also been added along with a grassy area and a new street cafe.

My street looks just the same as it always has but a public library has been built in the next street along. There used to be a great park there but they have cut down all the trees which is a pity. The library now has a large green area in front of it but it's not the same as when the park was there.

Another improvement is the number of new restaurants that have opened in Wilson Creek. A Chinese and an Italian restaurant have opened in the town centre and a Mexican restaurant has opened near my home. Which is where I am going tonight!

Today's grandparents are joining their grandchildren on social media, but the different generations' online habits couldn't be more different. The over-55s are joining Facebook in increasing numbers, meaning that they will soon be the site's second biggest user group, with 3.5 million users aged 55–64 and 2.9 million over-65s.

Sheila, aged 59, says, 'I joined to see what my grandchildren are doing, as my daughter posts videos and photos of them. It's a much better way to see what they're doing than waiting for letters and photos in the post. That's how we did it when I was a child, but I think I'm lucky I get to see so much more of their lives than my grandparents did.'

Ironically, Sheila's grandchildren are less likely to use Facebook themselves. Children under 17 are leaving the site – only 2.2 million users are under 17 – but they're not going far from their smartphones. Chloe, aged 15, even sleeps with her phone. 'It's my alarm clock so I have to,' she says. 'I look at it before I go to sleep and as soon as I wake up.'

Unlike her grandmother's generation, Chloe's age group is spending so much time on their phones at home that they are missing out on spending time with their friends in real life. Sheila, on the other hand, has made contact with old friends from school she hasn't heard from in forty years. 'We use Facebook to arrange to meet all over the country,' she says. 'It's changed my social life completely.'

Teenagers might have their parents to thank for their smartphone and social media addiction as their parents were the early adopters of the smartphone. Peter, 38 and father of two teenagers, reports that he used to be on his phone or laptop constantly. 'I was always connected and I felt like I was always working,' he says. 'How could I tell my kids to get off their phones if I was always in front of a screen myself?' So, in the evenings and at weekends, he takes his SIM card out of his smartphone and puts it into an old-style mobile phone that can only make calls and send text messages. 'I'm not completely cut off from the world in case of emergencies, but the important thing is I'm setting a better example to my kids and spending more quality time with them.'

Is it only a matter of time until the generation above and below Peter catches up with the new trend for a less digital life?

Many studies about language learning ask the question: What makes a good language learner? There are some things that good language learners do and some things they don't do. Here are some of the most useful suggestions from studies.

- Don't be afraid of making mistakes. People often get things wrong. Good language learners notice their mistakes and learn from them.
- Do group activities. People use language to communicate with other people. A good language learner always looks for opportunities to talk with other students.
- Make notes during every class. Notes help you to remember new language. Look at your notes when you do your homework.
- Use a dictionary. Good language learners often use dictionaries to check the meaning of words they don't know. They also make their own vocabulary lists.
- Think in the language you're learning outside the classroom. When you're shopping or walking down the street, remember useful words and phrases. Sometimes, when you're at home, say new words to practise your pronunciation.
- Do extra practice. Test and improve your language, reading and listening skills with self-study material. You can find a lot of this online.
- Imagine yourself speaking in the language. Many good language learners can see and hear themselves speaking in the language. This helps their motivation.
- Enjoy the process. Good language learners have fun with the language. Watch a TV series or film, listen to songs, play video games or read a book. It's never too late to become a good language learner.

Write the noun forms of the verbs. For example, 'imagination' is the noun form of the verb 'imagine'.

7. learn – _____
8. suggest – _____
9. communicate – _____
10. mean – _____
11. pronounce – _____
12. motivate – _____

Detroit: then and now

The American city of Detroit was like Paris, some people said. It had a big river, beautiful wide streets and important buildings. Then, in the 20th century, it was called 'Motor City' because of the number of car factories there. Workers in the car factories had good jobs and they earned good money. It wasn't unusual to own a home, a boat and even a holiday home. In the 1950s, new highways were built and lots of people moved from the city centre to the suburbs. Life was good. But at the beginning of the 21st century, Detroit became America's poorest big city

1. In the city of Detroit, ...
A. things are better than before.
B. things are the same as before.
C. things are worse than before.

2. There were a lot of car factories ...
A. in Detroit.

The story of the Aral Sea

In 2009 in Kazakhstan, a group of fishermen met on a Sunday afternoon. They were on the beach of the North Aral Sea. They ate food. They did some sports. Afterwards, they told stories and sang songs about the Aral Sea and fishing. It was a good party. The fishermen were happy because there were fish in the water. For many years, there weren't many fish. At one time, the Aral Sea in Central Asia was the fourth largest lake in the world. It had an area of 67,300 square kilometres. Two of the biggest rivers in Central Asia, the Amu Darya and the Syr Darya, went into the Aral Sea. But the water almost disappeared. The Aral Sea was a busy place. Almost 20 percent of the Soviet Union's fish came from here. 40,000 people lived and worked near the lake. Then people used the water in the two rivers for agriculture, so the water didn't arrive at the Aral Sea. Also, it didn't rain for many years.

4. Where is the Aral Sea?
A. in the Central Asia
B. in Kazakhstan
C. in Uzbekistan
D. in the North Kazakhstan

@matemonai

Questions 10-11 refer to the following letter in a school newspaper.

Text 3

This is my first year attending Wilson Middle School. Last year I went to a different middle school. Over the summer my father got a new job, so our whole family moved. Now I go to Wilson. I want to make some comments based on my unique perspective as someone who has attended two different middle schools. For example, I was surprised by all the complaints that the students at Wilson make about the food in the cafeteria. Either they don't like it, or they want more choices. But I like the food. The dishes are pretty tasty. And as for choices, at the school I went to last year there were never more than two lunch options each day. Sometimes there was only one! However, I don't want anyone to think that I have a negative opinion of the Wilson students. Actually, I have been impressed with how involved the students here are. I plan to participate in some of the special clubs here that are organized by students, like the photography club and the hiking club. At my last school, students were not as actively involved in forming clubs.

10. Why is the author a student at Wilson Middle School?

Star Trek

Perhaps the best known science fiction TV show is Star Trek. The original Star Trek aired on September 8, 1966. Gene Roddenberry, a former military pilot and Los Angeles police officer, created the show. It was about humanity joining together and exploring space. Each week, the crew of the spaceship USS Enterprise faced danger, love, and mysterious aliens. At its heart, however, Star Trek was about humanity. It tried to show that human beings, although flawed, were essentially good. Star Trek also tried to ask questions about social and political issues such as racism, war, and human rights.

14. Who created the original Star Trek?

Between 800 and 1100, the Vikings sailed across the Atlantic from Scandinavia to Greenland and North America. In 1000, Leif Eriksson landed on the coast of North America - nearly 500 years before Columbus. In 1961, researchers found part of a Viking village on the east coast of Canada.

The Silk Road connects China to Europe. From 500BC people travelled along the Silk Road to buy and sell things. Camels carried silk and spices to Europe, and returned with gold and silver. The road was 7,000 kilometres long and it could often be dangerous. Marco Polo was the first person to travel the whole way along the road. His journey started in Venice in 1271 and he returned home 24 years later!

The continent of America took its name from the Italian explorer Amerigo Vespucci. Vespucci explored South America in the 15th century, after Columbus's famous journey there.

In 1519, an expedition by the Portuguese explorer Ferdinand Magellan made the first voyage around the world. It lasted three years. But Magellan never completed the journey. He died in a battle in the Spice Islands before his ship returned home.

In 1911 Roald Amundsen from Norway became the first person to reach the South Pole.

A British team of explorers, with their leader Robert Scott, were trying to get there at the same time. The Norwegian team arrived at the Pole on 14th December, 33 days before Scott's team. Scott and his four men all died on their return journey.

6. What is the period of time when the Vikings sailed across the Atlantic?

A. About 300 years

B. About 500 years

C. About 800 years

7. The first person who travelled the whole way along the Silk Road:

A. Leif Eriksson

B. Marco Polo

C. Robert Scott

A. Begin

B. Continue

C. Finish

9. When did Marco Polo return home to Venice?

A. 1271

B. 1283

C. 1295

10. What is the possible title for this passage?

A. Explorers of the past

B. Famous people
C. The History of America

1. The first British ships arrived in Botany Bay in 1788 - they were 'prison ships' and the first settlers were convicts. Australia's first police force was a group of twelve of the best-behaved convicts! Later, immigrants from other European countries started to arrive. Today, nearly 25% of Australians were born in another country. The main language of Australia is English but there are also a lot of Italian, Greek, Cantonese and Arabic speakers.

2. The first Australians were Aboriginals. They lived in Australia 50,000 years before the Europeans. When the Europeans arrived, they killed many Aboriginals and took their land. Today, only one per cent of the population are Aboriginals, and many of them live in the cities.

3. Australia is the sixth largest country in the world. Eighty-five per cent of people live in the big cities, so you can travel for thousands of kilometres and never see anyone. Outside the cities, the land in Australia Is mainly hot desert. This is called the outback. In some parts of the outback, there aren't any schools. So children learn from the School of the Air- by radio, email and television. And when people in the outback are ill, their doctor visits them by plane - the 'Flying Doctor'.

4. Australia produces a lot of the world's wool - about 70%. It's important to protect the sheep from dingoes (wild dogs), so there is a fence called the 'dingo fence'. It's 1.8 metres high and 5,531 kilometres long - and it's the world's longest fence.

Black Friday is the day after the American holiday of Thanksgiving, which is celebrated on the fourth Thursday of November. Because it is a holiday in the United States, it has long been a popular day for consumers to start shopping for Christmas. Over the last 20 years big retailers have started to offer discounts and bargains on this day, and it has become more and more popular. Last year, people in the USA spent an estimated $54.7 billion between Black Friday and Cyber Monday (the Monday after Thanksgiving, when people often buy more online). The idea of Black Friday has also spread around the world. For example, in 2017, people in the UK spent the equivalent of $10.3 billion, in Germany $7.6 billion and in France $6.2 billion.

1. Black Friday first became popular as a shopping day because:
A. There have always been special offers on that day
B. Many people in the United States don't work or go to school on this day
C. It is the day before Thanksgiving, an important holiday
D. It is the most important day for Americans

Text 2

Many of us love to get a bargain, but some feel that events like Black Friday encourage people to buy things that they don't really need and can't afford. Many people seem to completely lose control of both their spending and their tempers. It is easy to find video online of customers physically fighting each other over bargains. It is also argued that Black Friday is bad for small shopkeepers, who cannot afford to offer the kinds of price cuts that the big companies can.

2. Why do some people think Black Friday is out of control?
A. Small shopkeepers offer discounts too.
B. Some people physically fight with the retailers.
C. People spend more than they can really afford.
D. They want to have more discounts on this day.

Text 3

Instead of taking the opportunity to buy as much as possible on Black Friday, you could do the opposite and buy absolutely nothing. Since 1997, Buy Nothing Day has been held on the same day as Black Friday. The rules are simple. Just don't buy anything at all for 24 hours. Many people are surprised how difficult this actually is. The aim is to make people think more about their spending and to make better decisions about what they buy and where they buy it from.

3. To celebrate Buy Nothing Day, you shouldn't go near a shopping centre.
A. True
B. False
C. Not given

4. To celebrate «Buy Nothing Day», the rules are that you:
A. Don't buy anything at all

@matemonai

B. Only buy from small shopkeepers
C. Think carefully about what you are buying
D. To get many things cheaper than usu

From: Nathalie

Subject: Hello Kate

Hi Kate

Hello from Paris!

I hope you are well. I am writing because I want to tell you about something that happened last week!

I went to a town called Menton in the south of France with my family. It is a very colorful place near the beach, and there are lots of boats there. It is winter now, but in Menton it was warm, not cold, and there was a bright blue sky.

We went to Menton because there is a big festival there every year. People use oranges and lemons to make big sculptures like this turtle! We arrived there at midday. First we went to have lunch in a restaurant. I did not eat much, because I was very excited.

Next, we went to see the sculptures. My favourite ones were the sculptures of buildings, because they are so big. I didn`t like the small sculptures, because they were boring.

We were enjoying the festivals. But then something happened. My little Brother took one of the oranges from a sculpture, and it fell down! All oranges and lemons fell on the ground! I didn`t know what to do!

People didn`t look happy, and my parents had to say sorry a lot. But we helped to pick up all oranges and lemons, and other people helped too. After a few minutes the sculptures looked OK again.

Finally we went to get ice-cream. Can you guess what flavour? Orange , or course!

7.Where does Natalie live?.
A. In Menton
B. In the south of France
C. Not given
D. In Paris

8. Lots of people helped to put the sculpture back together.
A. True
B. False
C.Doesn`t say

KATE MACKINTOSH WINS SWIMMING COMPETITION!

Last weekend was the school swimming competition. It happens every year, and lots of students join and try to win a race. So, on Saturday children and parents went to the swimming pool to enjoy the competition.

9. When we got to the pool, lots of children were getting ready, and their parents were watching from the side. It was a sunny day and everyone was feeling excited!

10. The most exciting race was the 4 x 100 m freestyle relay. A relay is a team race, where different people each do a different part of the race and work together. In the relay there were six teams.

11. When the last part of the relay race began, Ms Green's class were in last place. Nobody believed that they could win. But Kate Mackintosh started so fast that she was in front of two other teams after only a few seconds! Suddenly, she was in second place, with just 10 m to go!

12. Everyone was shouting for Kate to win, and right at the end of the race she kicked hard and finished first! She was the winner, and Ms Green's class were the relay winners!

To the questions 9-12 MATCH the numbers above with the correct headings:

A. From Last to Second
B. The Winner
C. A Different Kind of Race
D. Before the Races

13. Or, how about staying at a hotel on the moon, or a moon hotel here? The hotel in Azerbaijan will be round like the moon and look like a Star Wars film set. It will have 35 floors and have 382 large rooms to choose from.

14. If you like the idea of an iPod, how about trying a hotel pod? The idea is that you could pack and take your bedroom with you in your suitcase and go to any place in the world with all the things you usually have at home.

15. People who don't like the London Eye aren't going to book into this 185 metre tall building in Abu Dhabi. But if you aren't afraid of being up high, you could sleep in a hotel the shape of a diamond ring!

16. You could stay on a private island in Fiji, at a hotel with water all around it, and fish swimming over your room. And the first 1000 people to visit the hotel will have their names on two monuments forever!

The Empire State Building

When exploring New York City, there are several different options for activities during a day trip. Some visitors come to see a show, visit art museums, or simply to shop in many of the city's high-end retailers. However, many tourists simply come to New York City for the sightseeing. One of the most visited landmarks in New York City is the Empire State Building.

17. Which is not a popular reason that tourists come to New York City?

A. Watching a performance
B. Shopping
C. Sightseeing
D. Relaxing on its beaches

Text 9

The Empire State Building, constructed in 1931, is a 102-story skyscraper, the ninth highest building in the world, and the fourth tallest structure in the United States. It is located in Midtown, Manhattan. This skyscraper is an iconic symbol of the city, having been featured in over 90 popular movies (as of 2018) throughout film history. Tourists come from all over the world to visit this building and view the city from its famous observation decks.

Matthew, an enthusiast of historic buildings, was excited for this trip to New York City because he has always appreciated architectural design. Matthew purchased a ticket that granted him access to beautiful 360-degree views of the city. The ticket included an elevator ride that stopped at two different vantage points, one at the 86th floor and the other at the rooftop observatory on the 102nd floor. From these observation decks, Matthew took incredible photographs of the entire New York City skyline. The rooftop views granted Matthew perfect aerial perspectives of Central Park, the Brooklyn Bridge, Times Square, the Statue of Liberty, and many other important city landmarks.

18. Why was Matthew excited for his trip to the Empire State Building?

A. He received a free ticket to the rooftop observatories
B. He works as a photographer of city skylines
C. He had never been to a city before
D. He appreciates architecture and historical buildings

19. How did Matthew arrive to the top of the building?

A. He rode a helicopter

Martin had a terrible day yesterday. It was the day of his vacation to Spain but it was a nightmare. He left the house at 10 o'clock in the morning and caught a taxi to the airport.

Martin went to the check-in with his luggage. When the man who worked for the airline asked for his passport, Martin became very upset. Where was his passport? Martin realized he didn't have his passport with him. What a disaster!

He jumped back into the taxi and told the driver to take him home. The driver drove quickly and Martin arrived back at his house in twenty minutes.

He ran into the house and went into his bedroom. He found his passport on the bedside table and left the house again. But the taxi wasn't there! Where was the taxi!

Martin jumped up and down angrily. "I don't believe it. The taxi left!" he shouted. He ran down the street and looked for another taxi.

After a few minutes, Martin found another taxi and told the driver to take him to the airport as quickly as possible. The traffic on the roads was very bad and, unfortunately, Ma rtin's taxi arrived at the airport late. His plane left for Spain at 11.30 and Martin missed it. He was very sad and went to speak to the airline. They promised to get him a seat on an evening flight and Martin went home on another taxi to wait.

TEXT 3
The Story of the Aral Sea
(From "NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC news")

April 2010

One Sunday afternoon in Kazakhstan last August, a group of fishermen met for a celebration. They were on the shore of the North Aral Sea. They brought food to eat, and they had races and throwing contests. Afterwards, they relaxed, telling stories and singing songs about the Aral Sea and fishing and how much they loved both of these things.

Once, the Aral Sea in Central Asia was the fourth largest lake in the world. However, it has almost disappeared because of irrigation and long period with no rain. In 2005, the Kazakh government and the World Bank built a wall (to stop water flowing or moving) that separated the northern and southern parts of the sea. The northern part of the Aral Sea has started to recover. There are fish in the water and for the past four years, fishermen have come to celebrate.

Philip Micklin is a scientist who has been studying the sea since the 1980s. 'Nature can come back.' he says.

October 2014

Satellite images from this week show that the eastern part of the Aral Sea is completely dry. 'It is likely the first time it has completely dried up in 600 years,' said expert Philip Micklin.

The Aral Sea once had an area of 67,300 square kilometres. Two of Central Asia's biggest rivers, the Amu Darya and the Syr Darya, flowed into the Sea. This means that it was actually a freshwater lake, not a seawater lake. But it was so big it was called a sea. The Aral Sea used to be a busy place. Almost 20 percent of the Soviet Union's fish came from here and 40,000 people used to work near the lake. As the lake dried up, it separated into different parts. The eastern part nearly dried up in 2009 but it recovered in 2010 after some rain. Now, it's completely dry.

June 2015

Yusup Kamalov is a scientist from Uzbekistan. I am standing with him looking at a huge desert. Except that it's not like any other desert – fifty years ago the southern shore of the Aral Sea was right where we stand. Now it is 80 kilometres away to the northwest. We set off to drive to the water. On the way, we pass oil and natural gas rigs standing on the sand. According to Kamalov, each year there are a few more. 'Can you imagine,' he says, 'that 40 years ago the water was 30 metres deep right here.' We finally arrive at the edge of the lake, which is so salty that no fish can live in it.

'This is what the end of the world looks like,' says Kamalov.

13. What period do the three news stories cover?
A. Three months
B. Three years
C. Four years
D. Five years

14. What happened to the Aral Sea over the period of the three news stories?
A. It got bigger
B. It stayed the same
C. It got smaller
D. Became the smallest river in Kazakhstan

15. Which statement is true, according to the second news story?
A. In 2009 there was no water in the eastern Aral Sea
B. In 2014 there was no water in the eastern Aral Sea
C. In 2010 there was no water in the eastern Aral Sea
D. In 2011 there was no water in the eastern Aral Sea

16. According to the second news story, ...
A. the Aral Sea is really a lake
B. the water in the Aral Sea was salty
C. water from the Aral Sea goes into two rivers
D. there's a lot of activity on the Aral Sea nowadays

17.

A. Professor Gilroy is teaching all day.
B. Professor Gilroy will be late.
C. Professor Gilroy has a new class.
D. Professor Gilroy is not teaching today.

Along with jogging and swimming, cycling is one of the best all-round forms of exercise. It can help to increase your strength and energy, giving you more efficient muscles and a stronger heart. But increasing your strength is not the only advantage of cycling.

Because you're not carrying the weight of your body on your feet, it's a good form of exercise for people with painful feet or backs. However, with all forms of exercise it's important to start slowly and build up gently) Doing too much too quickly can damage muscles that aren't used to working. If you have any doubts about taking up cycling for health reasons, talk to your doctor and ask his/her advice.

Ideally you should be cycling at least two or three times a week. For the exercise to be doing you good, you should get a little out of breath. Don't worry that if you begin to lose your breath, it could be dangerous and there must be something wrong with your heart. This is simply not true; shortness of breath shows that the exercise is having the right effect. However, if you find you are in pain then you should stop and take a rest.

18. This piece of writing is for

A. children
B. doctors
C. anyone
D. sportsmen and sportswomen

19. People with back problems might going cycling because

A. it is a good general form of exercise.
B. weight is taken off the feet.
C. you can't damage muscles quickly.
D. you get a little out of breath.

20.

A. Everything is cheaper this week.
B. No extra charges this week.
C. Usual prices this week.
D. Cheaper prices next week.
