A Special Job

For most people in Kazakhstan, a job means they get up at 7:00 am and drive to work by 8:30 or 9:00 am. Later, they have lunch at 1:00 pm and start work again at 2:00 pm. Finally, they finish work at about 5:00 pm and then go home and have dinner with their family. That kind of job is okay for most people, but my job is special and I love it. I'm a commercial airline pilot. That means I don't drive to work, I fly. In fact, I fly to many different destinations in the world and I have many friends in many countries. Usually, I fly between countries in Central Asia, Europe and Africa. It's not surprising, then, that my best friend lives in England and we stay in touch by WhatsApp and e-mail – when I'm in London, he usually invites me to have lunch or dinner with him and his family. In fact, my favorite food is chips and fish. Another good friend of mine – Mane – lives in Abuja. That's the capital city of Nigeria. Mane and I love to watch wild animals when I visit him. Is my job perfect? No, it's not. Because I fly across many different time zones, I sometimes go to bed at 3:00 am. At other times, I go to bed at 3:00 pm. That kind of schedule isn't easy. In addition, my job often separates me from my wife and three children. They live in Almaty and often I am thousands of kilometers away. Sometimes I miss them very much. However, I think I have an exciting job. And my kids think it's great that I can say, "Hello" in twenty different languages: "Marhabo", "Bonjour", "Hallo", "Bawo ni".....

DINOSAURS

Dinosaurs were alive millions of years ago when they ruled the Earth. People who study dinosaurs are called paleontologists. We learn a lot about dinosaurs through the finding of fossils that have been put back together to see how dinosaurs looked.

There were many different kinds of dinosaurs, including Triceratops and Tyrannosaurus Rex (T-Rex), before they all became extinct or are no longer living. Triceratops was a dinosaur with three horns on its head. Those three horns were used to protect the Triceratops from other dinosaurs, such as the T-Rex. It was very dangerous when it became angry. It could speed up to 20 mph (miles per hour). The Triceratops was also known for its large skull and body. It was a plant eating dinosaur, a herbivore.

The T-Rex was a huge dinosaur that was known for being very violent. It had only two legs, a huge head and a heavy, long tail. Although the arms of a T-Rex were small, they were very strong and had two clawed fingers on each hand. It was fast enough and could move as fast as 33 mph. So, It could easily catch its prey.

1 Now, read the text below and find out the answer.

Sweet music for milking

Dairy cows produce more milk when listening to relaxing music, say researchers. They believe farmers could get an extra pint from their charges by playing classical music or smoochy numbers in the cowshed.

Psychologists at the University of Leicester, UK, played music of different tempos to herds of Friesian cattle. Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony and Simon & Garfunkel's Bridge Over Troubled Water were a big hit in the milking shed. But when rowdy numbers, like Mud's Tiger - feet and Size of a Cow by Wonders - tuff, were played, there was no increase in milk yield.

"Calming music can improve milk yield, probably because it reduces stress," said Dr Adrian North, who carried out the study with colleague Liam Mackenzie.

2 Read the second part of the text and answer the questions below.

STRESS RELIEF

The study was carried out at LCAH Dairies in Lincolnshire and Bishop Burton Agricultural College in Humberside. One-thousand-strong herds of Friesian cattle were exposed to fast, slow and no music for 12 hours a day, from 5am to 5pm, over the course of nine weeks. The researchers found that each cow's milk yield rose by 3% (0.73 litres [1.54 pints]) a day when slow music, rather than fast music, was played.

The work adds to evidence that calming music reduces stress in animals, as well as people."Most theories of music preferences are based on humans," said Liam Mackenzie. "We found that slow music improved milk yields perhaps because it relaxes the cows in much the same way as it relaxes humans." The pair is now seeking further funding to see whether music can help other animals.

1. Which animals were involved in the study?

B)

C)

2. Which music type would have positive effect?
